About LINKAGES

Linkages, a non-profit organization, was founded by Tucson business leader, Jim Click. His vision was to gather the often overlooked jobseekers with disabilities in one location, then make their wealth of skills and motivation readily available to the business community.

For 20 years Linkages has been the 'link' between area businesses with employment openings and job seekers who also have disabilities, with special outreach to wounded warriors. We know that employment is more than a paycheck, it gives life meaning, is a social outlet, and leads to financial independence. This work is done in partnership with agencies who serve individuals with disabilities in finding employment, last year 1,954 jobseekers found employment through our partner agencies throughout Southern Arizona!

"People with disabilities that I have hired are motivational, dependable, and an inspiration to the rest of my staff. It is the best business decision I've ever made." – Jim Click

LINKAGES "Building Bridges Awards"

The Building Bridges Awards luncheon is a one of a kind event where we celebrate employment for individuals with disabilities. We do this by honoring the Employer, Employee, and Employment Specialist of the year who has impacted people with disabilities in our community most. In 2016 we had 250 guest join us and over $55,000 was raised to support our programs and contribute to the economy linking employers to qualified candidates to ensure every person with a disability and veteran has the opportunity for employment.

Nominate

Anyone is welcome to nominate someone for a Building Bridges award, as long as the nominee lives in Pima County. You can make as many nominations as you like by completing the nomination form on our website.
